Century Readings in American Literature

By FRED LEWIS PATTEE

Pennsylvania State College

This will be a companion volume to the well-known Century Readings in English Literature. It will be the most comprehensive and complete collection of American prose and poetry for school and college use that has as yet appeared. It will supply in addition to the material usually found in such works what heretofore has been a serious lack, adequate material for the study of that distinctively American group of writers which began its work shortly after the close of the Civil War: Mark Twain, Bret Harte, Howells, James, Cable, Harris, Craddock, Riley, Burroughs, Bunner, Miss Jewell, Mrs. Freeman, and others.

The book is redolent of Americanism. Other things being equal, the editor has selected such material as would best show the true American spirit. It will illustrate completely the evolution of American literature and enough is given of the work of each author to give an adequate impression of what that author stands for. A biographical and critical introduction has been furnished for each of the major writers, enough to give all that will be needed by the average student.

Writing of Today

By J. W. CUNLIFFE and GERHARD R. LOMER

The success of this collection of contemporary models for English composition has prompted the issue of a new edition, in which advantage has been taken of the experience of the editors and others in the use of the book for teaching purposes.

The new edition contains contributions by such well-known American and English writers as Lyman Abbott, Arnold Bennett, Arthur Brisbane, Clutton Brock, John Burroughs, G. K. Chesterton, Richard Harding Davis, Lowes Dickinson, John Galsworthy, Philip Gibbs, Francis Hackett, Philip Hale, W. J. Henderson, Robert Herrick, James Huneker, Will Irwin, Stephen B. Leacock, Philip Littell, Seumas MacManus, Dwight W. Morrow, Theodore Roosevelt, Bernard Shaw, Stuart P. Sherman, Frank H. Simonds, Simeon Strunsky, Ida Tarbell, Bayard Veiller, Henry Watterson, H. G. Wells, Woodrow Wilson, W. B. Yeats.

Knowles's Oral English

KNOWLES'S ORAL ENGLISH is the outgrowth of ten years of experiment, research, and successful experience.

It teaches students how to prepare what is worth hearing, as well as how to acquire the art of effective delivery.

The section on composition shows how to secure and organize material.

The section on argument and persuasion teaches the rules of debate, how to prepare and test proof, how to make a brief, how to refute, and how to persuade and convince.

Abundant exercises, illustrative extracts, and lists of topics are included.

Cloth. 370 pages. $1.28

Buhlig's First-Year English

Lessons and drill upon word-study, grammar, and oral and written composition, emphasizing essentials.

Spelling, pronunciation, and punctuation are reviewed in the light of the high-school requirements.

The paragraph is presented in connection with lessons upon the sentence and the value of clear thinking.

Application of principles is illustrated in connection with the study and writing of business letters.
